REGULATIONS FOR THE SALE OF -OPIUM.

In our "By Authority" column we print the regulations for the sale of opium, promulgated by His Excellency Mr. Aholo. The Minister of the Interior is empowered by law to make "rules and regulations for the proper regulation of the sale of opium or its preparations under the Act." He is not empowered, however, to enlarge upon or add to the statute. But His Excellency Mr. Aholo has done so, and there can be little doubt that in this regard he has gone outside and beyond the law.

There is some excuse, perhaps, in the fact that the law itself is unworkable but it does not therefore follow that the Minister of the Interior should supplement the statute and make regulations to take the place of law. This, however, is what Mr. Aholo appears to have lone under section 8, which gives him general power to make regulations for the sale of opium. In our judgment the regulations in question are not worth the paper they are printed upon, and their observance may subject the license to the penalties under the Act. It is no excuse to say that the law is defective in its machinery. Those who are now attempting to amend the law by regulations would not listen to reason while the bill was before the Legislature, but insisted upon passing it as it stood. Perhaps this is saying too much, however, seeing that Mr. Cecil Brown moved the provision authorizing the Minister of the Interior to formulate rules and regulations under the Act; but most certainly this does not empower that Minister to supplement it. The rules and regulations must be in accordance with law and not supplemental to or in excess of

The rules in question do not confine themselves to regulations within the statute; they go outside and supplement the law. For example, the law contemplates one licensee, one official record and one place where opium may be sold; the regulations promulgated by Mr. Aholo authorize the licensee to appoint agents who are to be empowered to sell opium throughout the Kingdom. We fail to see any authority under the law for such a regulation. On the contrary, the law proceeds upon the theory that there shall be one license and one place of opium sale, and that there shall be one book of record of sales, and one only. His Excellency Mr. Aholo, however, supplements the law by regulation, and authorizes the licensee to appoint agents for the sale of opium, but he does not enjoin them to keep books of record. If the licensee does so he will probably come to grief, and the Minister of the Interior will not be able to help him.

Another point deserving of mention arises out of No. 5 of the resolutions. It mposes a charge of $1 for each license to be issued by the Marshal, under section 7 of the Act, "one-half of which fee shall be for the benefit of the Hawaiian Government, and the other to the Marshal." We are amazed at such an official regplation. Section 7 of the law provides that any person obtaining a physician's certificate that he is entitled to consume opium shall "obtain a license from the Marshal or his deputy as hereinafter provided, authorizing the intending purchaser to use opium or any preparation thereof." Now, it so happens that there is no "as hereinafter provided," and the section in question was amended housebreaking, the circumstances alin the Legislature by striking out authority to the Marshal to charge fifty cents for each such certificate. Yet here we have His Excellency Mr. Aholo not only giving half a dollar to Marshal Kaulukou for each opium license, but exacting another half-dollar "for the benefit of the Hawaiian Government." which is sufficiently guarded by the license, revenue stamp and import duty on opium. This is thrift with a vengeance; but somehow it is thriftless thrift, because it does not call upon the Marshal for an accounting. There is no check established "to the benefit of the Hawaiian Government," and no agent is mentioned for the receipt, custody, and accounting of this half-dollar opium fund received on its behalf. The sixth regulation provides that the medical fee shall be $1, which fee shall ler has received the license for the

is considered that the opium certificate is in the nature of a prescription for some disease, we think this is dealing rather hardly with the physicians. It is scarcely worth questioning whether the law authorizes any regulation of the kind, but the remark may be permitted that the official fees to an "opium fiend" will be heavy. Every time he replenishes his pipe-unless he buys by wholesale, which the law does not contemplate-he must pay the Government and the Marshal $1 and the physician who furnishes him with a certificate of opium-necessity another dollar. Then he has to pay for the drug itself, buying it from a monopolist. All this seems very hard. One would think that there was no money in the opium business under such conditions, but somehow a large annual sum is paid for the opium license, and we suppose that the consumers will pay the extra charges imposed by regulations.

THE FOREIGN NEWS.

The news to hand yesterday, though our files are incomplete, shows the general tendency of the relations between the European Powers to be the reverse of amicable. This conclusion is gathered from the almost universal disposition to the increase of armaments rather than from any diplomatic negotiations made public. As to the latter, advices are silent excepting as regards rumors. An important change has occurred in the British Cabinet, which may not improbably be the precursor of a Liberal accession to power in the near future. The rock on which the Tory Ministry has split is the army and navy estimates, Lord Churchill deeming the of those departments uncalled for in view of present foreign relations. Other grounds are suggested for the rupture, but these are publicly announced, and it is probable they constitute the principal cause of the disagreement. That the late this would naturally induce him, in pursuance of such principles, to take excep- many. tion to any unnecessary expenditure for warlike purposes. In the event of the Liberals again coming into office, with Gladstone at their head, the prospects of peace being maintained so far as England is concerned will be greatly the Irish tenants is worse now than ful how far the present administration may have committed themselves in their foreign policy. The influence the change in rents where everything else has is likely to have upon the Irish question failed, he regards as improbable. Last evening Mr. Edmund H. Hart, one of the obliging operators of the Hawaiian Bell Telephone Company, was united in marriage to Miss Annie K. Love, at St. Andrew's Cathedral. The ceremony was performed in a very impressive manner by the Rev. Alexander Mackintosh. A large number of people were present in the church to witness the ceremony. The bride was given away by Alex. Mr. John D. Spreckels, in speaking of the death of General Logan, said to a 'Call' reporter: "I believe our country has sustained a great loss in the death of General Logan, a loss, in fact, that it will be difficult to overcome. He has always been a man prominent in public life, and his well-known integrity has many times reflected itself in wise counsel in the halls of Congress. While I did not personally have the pleasure of meeting him while here during the encampment, yet I recollect how cordially our people received him, and I believe it was well deserved. I do not call to mind anyone in the ranks of the Republican leaders who can fill the vacancy caused by General Logan's death, and it will no doubt require considerable study to solve the problem. His loss will be keenly felt in his own State, which he has so faithfully served for years, but as soldier and statesman the whole country will mourn and keep him and his career alive in memory."

VARIOUS FORM'S OF VERTIGO.

Symptoms Which Sometimes Scare Persons Badly-Not Often Dangerous. Vertigo is from a Latin word that means to turn. It denotes an ailment characterized by a sudden feeling of dizziness, and at times by actual falling. Sometimes surrounding objects seem to the person attacked to whirl around, or the floor (or ground) to rise up. The fact that vertigo is often one of the earlier symptoms of apoplexy, frequently fills the person with terror, lest that deadly disease may be impending. But in the majority of cases it has no such significance, not even as indicating a tendency.

One form of vertigo, a very persistent form, is due to irritation of certain nerves within the inmost chamber of the ear, the so-called labyrinth. This was what Dean Swift suffered from so long, and, to the physicians of his day, so unaccountably. One of its symptoms is temporary deafness. This distinguishes it from all other forms.

Cousins' Marriage in Persia.

In Persia the marriage of first cousins is the favorite union. The reason is that cousins have been acquaintances and friends from childhood, while to the rest of the world, save her brothers and sisters, the young girl is a veiled mystery; so that, unless there is a mutual disinclination or too great a disparity of age, the Persian youth looks forward to the "daughter of my uncle" as his future wife. Often the cousins are betrothed from childhood. As a rule, classes do not mingle in marriage. The sons of merchants wed merchants' daughters; the young tradesman mates with his like, and so with the members of the servant and soldier classes.-Chicago Herald.
